Texas' largest retail electricity provider makes it a three-peat on the list of the area's most sought-after employers

DALLAS – Nov. 21, 2016 – For the third year in a row, TXU Energy landed on the Dallas Morning News' Top 100 Places to Work, coming in at No. 9 among large companies (500 or more employees).

“Being a great place to work simply comes down to one thing – people,” said Scott Hudson, president of TXU Energy. “Our people are responsible for shaping the TXU Energy culture, which is unique, vibrant and a vital part of our success as a company. This is a great place to work because of our employees’ enthusiasm and spirit, and because it’s a great place to work, we can focus on our customers to make sure every experience is a positive one.”

Rank order is a reflection of employee responses to questions about company values, organizational health, work-life balance, leadership, culture and corporate engagement from an anonymous survey administered by third party WorkplaceDynamics.

The first time TXU Energy competed for the DMN Top 100 in 2014, the company landed at No. 21. In 2015, the company jumped up to No. 7.
